ALS Office Hours FAQs:

Q: I want to be more involved in ALS research. Where do I start?

A: Sign up for Healey Center research updates by emailing: healeycenterforals@mgh.harvard.edu.

Join ALS TDI's ALS Research Collaborative (ARC): <https://arc.als.net/>.

Apply to be a NEALS Research Ambassador: <https://neals.org/>.

You can sign up to receive Research Notifications through The National ALS Registry: <https://www.cdc.gov/als/>.

ALS TDI's Clinical Trials page: <https://www.als.net/als-research/als-clinical-trials/>.

Sign up for global clinical trial updates from ALS TDI: info@als.net.

Q: What vitamins and supplements are you taking? What does your regimen consist of?

A: Here is a link to Dr. Bedlack's most recent ALSUntangled webinar called 'Vitamins and Supplements in ALS': <https://neals.org/people-living-with-als/educational-webinars/alsuntangled-vitamins-and-supplements-in-als>

Richard Bedlack on ALS Reversals: An Update for 2022 (EverythingALS webinar): <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TKBkx3gJ41Q>

Q: Do I need genetic testing? How do I get genetic testing?

A: I say yes but talk to your doctor. Prevention Genetics x Ionis: <https://bit.ly/3OTB3pK>. They will mail a kit to home, so there is no need to go anywhere. A doctor needs to approve the request, but it does not need to be a neurologist – it can be a PCP as well. If you enroll in ARC, ALS TDI will sequence your genome at no cost. You can meet with a genetic counselor, either in-person or via telehealth, through the National Society of Genetic Counselors (NSGC): <https://www.nsgc.org/>.
